eNotify User Guide- Revised 06/2022

What is eNotify?

- Portal for litigants and agency partners to securely receive and view court documents.
- Inbox for documents received as a secure email that can be viewed and downloaded.
- Indicates the sender's name, time & date of sending, and any attachment details.
- Ability to search sent and received mail by keywords.

Landing Page: One-Time Passcode

Disclaimer: For users who have an existing UCS account (or who previously logged in w/ a Microsoft account), please skip to Page 5.

For users who:

- Do not have a NY Courts account associated with their e-mail address, and
- Have not previously logged in to the eNotify Portal with a Microsoft account with that e-mail, then

When the user clicks the link to eNotify in their e-mail, they will be presented with the landing page:

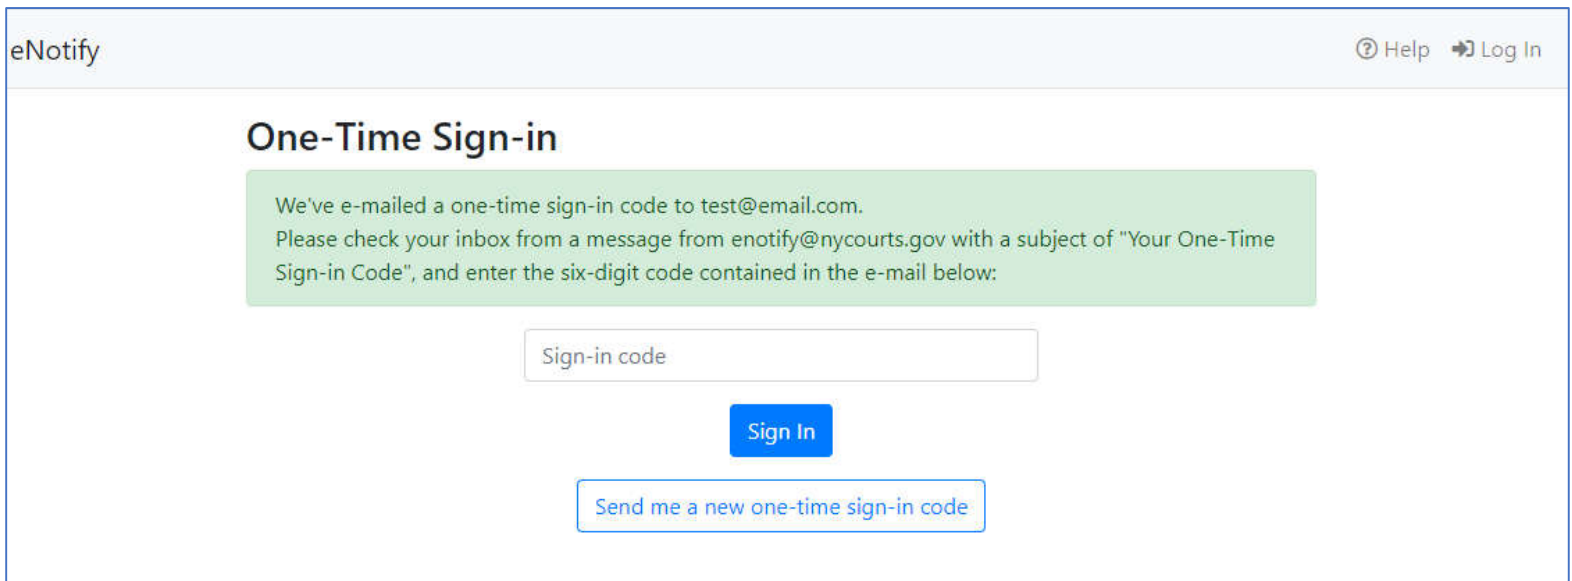

The screenshot shows the eNotify landing page. At the top left is the 'eNotify' logo. At the top right are links for 'Help' and 'Log In'. The main heading is 'Welcome to the NY Courts eNotify Web Portal'. Below this is a sub-heading: 'Before we continue, we need to make sure it's you.' The question 'How do you want to sign in?' is followed by two buttons: 'E-mail me a one-time sign-in code' and 'Log in with (or create) a NY Courts or Microsoft account'.

Please note that the only way to launch the one-time-code sign-in process is to follow the link in an e-mail. There is no way to start a one-time sign-in process if the user visits the portal directly in their web browser (however, they could create or log in with an account).

eNotify User Guide- Revised 06/2022

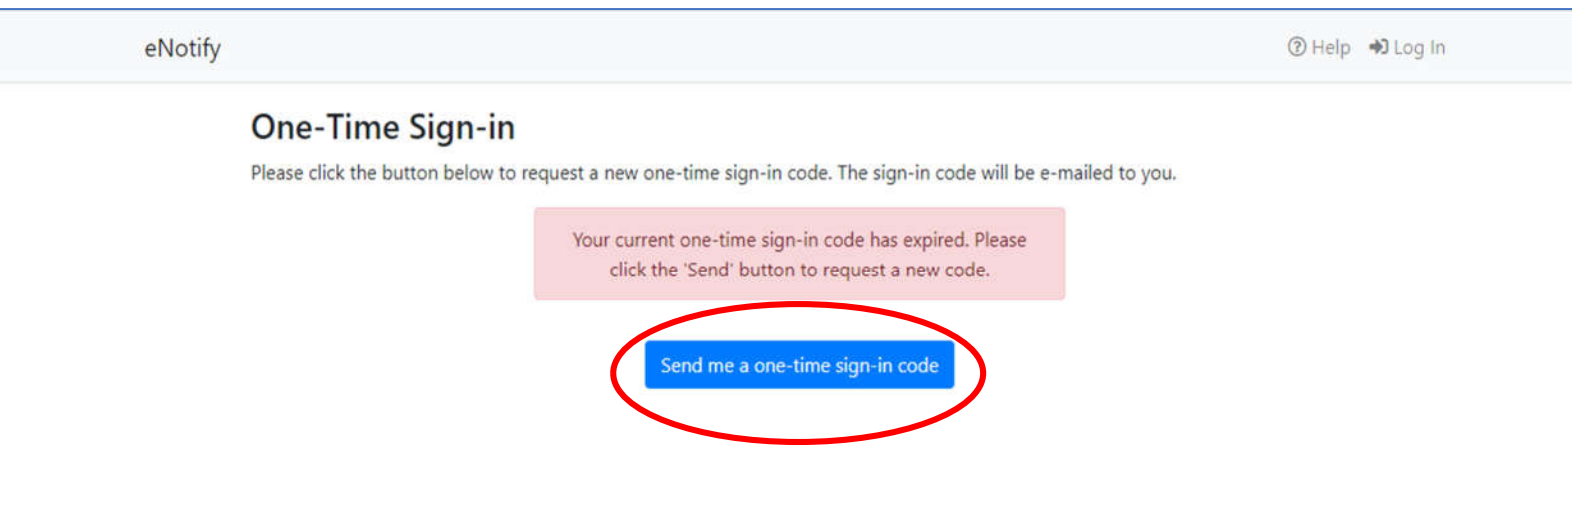

Upon clicking the "E-mail me a one-time sign-in code" button, the user is taken to this screen:

Entering the correct code (within fifteen minutes) will sign them in and take them directly to the eNotify message they were attempting to view.

If the time between entering the code and when it was sent exceeds 15 minutes, the code will be expired and the user will have to use the option to send them another one-time sign-in code.

Sign in to eNotify

Click on the following link to access the eNotify sign in page:

<https://enotify.nycourts.gov/>

The eNotify system allows for two different sign-in paths. Users can choose to either sign in with NY Courts, or sign in with Microsoft.

The screenshot shows the eNotify sign-in interface. At the top left is the 'eNotify' logo, and at the top right are links for 'Help' and 'Log In'. The page is split into two main sections by a vertical line with 'OR' in the middle.

Sign in with Microsoft

If you have an existing personal or work account with Microsoft, click the button above to sign in.

Once signed in, you will be able to view secure messages that were sent to the primary e-mail address associated with your Microsoft account.

If you previously created a Microsoft account to view encrypted e-mails from the old eNotify system that used Outlook Message Protection, you can sign in with that account by clicking the button above.

Microsoft Exchange admins: click here to grant consent for users in your organization's ActiveDirectory tenant to sign in to eNotify with their AD accounts.

Why don't I see an option to log in with a one-time code? For security reasons, you're not seeing an option to log in with a one-time code because you've previously successfully logged in using a NY Courts account. Please log in with your NY Courts to continue. If you've forgotten the password, please click the "Forgot Password" link above.

Need help? Please refer to the eNotify System User Guide

Disclaimer: For users who may have skipped the one-time passcode option instructions, please refer to page 3. Also refer to the bottom of this sign in page, where the potential lack of this option is explained.

Sign in With NY Courts

- Allows users to sign in and view their eNotify portal using their existing NY Courts account information, or to create a new NY Courts Account to sign in with.

If the user chooses to sign in with NY Courts and create a new NY Courts account, they will be prompted with the below screen to create the account:

The screenshot shows the 'Create a New York Courts Account' page. The header includes the New York State Unified Court System logo and the text 'UCS Security - Self Service for Your Account'. On the left, there are navigation links under 'Options' (Home, Forgot Password?) and 'Help' (System Requirements, FAQ, Contact Us). The main content area is titled 'Create a New York Courts Account' and contains the following text: 'This page will help you create a new user account for the eNotify application. You may also be able to enable this account for use with other New York Courts applications in the future. To create your account, please enter the following:'. Below this is the 'Login Credentials' section with fields for 'Username:', 'New Password:', and 'Re-enter New Password:'. The 'Name & Contact' section includes fields for 'Prefix: (Optional)', 'First Name:', 'Middle Name: (Optional)', 'Last Name:', 'Suffix: (Optional)', and 'Email address:'. A 'Create Account' button is located at the bottom of the form.

The Account for accessing the E-Mails MUST be set up using the original recipient E-Mail address (not the individual's E-Mail address where forwarded) with a corresponding Password, wherever there is a distribution list connected to a centralized E-Mail address.

Inbox

The eNotify Inbox will be the destination for a user's received secure emails. The inbox is defaulted to show the last 10 entries on a single page but can be adjusted to show up to the last 100 entries (Circled Green in the screenshot below).

The list of secure emails within the Inbox are sorted by the time of delivery. Emails that are new and unread will be bolded, and the number of unread emails will be indicated by a badge, or amount counter (Circled Blue in the screenshot below).

The search bar in the Inbox can be used to search the user's inbox for a file #, court name, party name, or any other relevant search criteria (Circled Red in the screenshot below).
